Skating to work requires getting up forty-five minutes early.

On the other hand, the look on SR's face when I rolled into the bullpen was worth a little lost sleep.

All right, unconscious mind. We're coming to an accommodation. If the dreams are you cleaning house, putting Elvis doesn't live here anymore.

Hey there. Sorry about the drama. It was... it was an emotional decision, and I didn't handle it well. So yeah, I'm sorry.

Poppets. Puppets. Poppet puppets.

You SKATED to work? Oh my freakin' GAWD. No wonder he made that crack about energetic pursuit of the truth. And gave you the really big files.

And I missed it, damn it. Stupid DMV!

Yes, yes, climbing, please! I need to do something to get the Stanford case out of my brain. It's not quiet, Platypus; it's only quiet enough that we don't need to leave town.

It was bootiful. He swept in like Mercury with wee li'l wingies on his ankles. And SR was... You know, I don't think I can describe it. I'm sure I've never seen it before.

Hey! You forgot the reminder about tipping the bar staff!

(Speaking of, do human flies want beer after exertion? Rabbit want beer later.)

Careful you don't drive Mom to forbid Ollies in the bullpen...
